

Problem Statement

Companies are placing too many ads on articles and are making it difficult to see the content.

Details

- Articles today are flooded with ads and it has become difficult to get to the actual content.
- People experience this problem everyday whether they're trying to access a recipe, find sources for a paper, or learn a new skill.
- I have worked to come up with a tool that can combat this problem and aid people in their day to day lives.